

The students of B.Com.(Accounting & Finance) are a batch of bright young minds. The curriculum content of the course keeps them busy throughout the semester with studies, tests, project presentations, etc. In order to showcase their talents other than academic excellence, the students of the batch 2009–10 came up with new ideas. One of those ideas was bringing out a magazine in the name of the departmental fest 'EPOCH'.

The magazine was well received by the entire College. It drew appreciation because this was an initiative by a Course where journalism was not part of the curriculum. The magazine was the first and only one of its kind among non-media courses.

The magazine was organized into various sections - one in which the Principal and faculty members shared their ideas with the students. Second, which contained details of the various activities of the course during the year. Third, exhibited the literary and creative skills of the students in the form of essays, quiz, snippets, poems, etc. Photographs pertaining to all the above, made a visual treat of the magazine.

The batch that followed, decided to carry forward the exercise in the form of a newsletter called 'EXTRAVAGANZA'.

The students of 2011-12 batch presented the literary activity in the form of a magazine called 'IMPRESSIONS'.

The BAF course aims at providing overall personality development of the students. In this regard, the magazine was seen as an important and interesting endeavour.
