Principal's Note

Greetings to all readers!!

SIESASCN has truly risen from a simple beginning in 1998 to be the most popular Institution in Navi Mumbai. The College has grown over the years providing quality education to the residents of Navi Mumbai. While following the syllabi offered by the University of Mumbai, the College also adopts different pedagogic tools to impart education in a more effective and meaningful way.

The College firmly believes that because college life plays an influential part in the life of every student, the education should be for improving the lives of all for making concerned and continuously the community and the student and world better thus, making it both society centric.

As a part of our Institutional Social Responsibility, we have different Committees like the NSS Unit, the Students' Council, Women's Development Cell and Conservation Club who work towards inculcating social values the concern for and environment in our students.

As the College treads in its path towards growth, the vision of the College is to see that its students become either entrepreneurs or employable in the competitive world. The differently abled, underprivileged are all given equal status. Our alumni have excelled in diverse fields, yet have remained connected to us by contributing towards our progress.

This being my first year in this College, I hope to take it to greater heights by creating the right synergy between the students, parents, teachers and non teaching staff.

Congratulations to the Magazine team for having portrayed a kaleidoscopic view of the College!

Convenor's Note

Dear readers,

Greetings from SIESASCN!

It gives me great pleasure to communicate with you through the medium of magazine.

The Dalai Lama said, "When educating the minds of our youth, we must not forget to educate their hearts". The values adopted by SIESASCN are very much in agreement with the same.

Overall development of an individual is the core value of SIESASCN. This has manifested into the various activities undertaken by the Principal, staff and students. The team that compiled this magazine has tried to capture this manifestation. The commitment to accuracy, dedication to presentation and effort to comprehensive coverage are all an attempt in this regard.

The magazine also is a platform where the staff and students can display their literary skills. The College being predominantly a commerce and science college, magazine is a place where the latent literary skills are brought to the fore.

The interest of the readers has been kept in mind while organizing the contents. While for an outsider, the magazine might offer a kaleidoscopic view of the various aspects of the College, for the faculty and students leafing through the pages of this book, it might be a nostalgic walk down the memory lane.

I thank our Principal, Dr. Milind Vaidya and Vice-Principal Dr. Koel Roy Choudhury for their guidance in compiling this magazine. My thanks are also due to Ms. Ashwathy Ravindran (Faculty, BCom) for her meticulous support.

Presenting to you CACHE 2017-18,

Sincerely yours,

B. Indumathi

(Convenor, Magazine Committee)

FRAMES FILM FESTIVAL

It serves as a platform for amateur and enterprising film makers from across the globe to showcase their films. The different categories of films presented at the festival include Short Films (national and international), Documentary Films, Animation Videos, Music Videos, and Advertisement Videos.

This year, the FFF team brought with it a will to be different from its predecessors by giving a touch of novelty to various aspects of the event. To begin with, the theme chosen for the 15th edition of the Festival was "KATHA-RSIS: Chronicles of Change" - a combination of the Hindi word 'Katha' (meaning stories) and Greek word 'Catharsis' (meaning a release of emotional tension after an overwhelming experience) – thereby suggesting the role of media in effecting change in lives around. Further, an additional category of Contingent Films (made by students of BMM in different colleges of Mumbai) was introduced to encourage young aspirants of film making industry. Also, the team added a dimension of social responsibility by partnering with 'Letters of Love', a social initiative guided by UNHCR, the United Nations Refugee Agency, to connect young Syrian refugees with the world. As a part of the same, the students sent photos along with messages of hope and gifts to the innocent little beings whose lives were irrevocably altered by acts of political insanity.

The three day festival (9th, 10th and the 11th of January 2018) presented by Money Trade Coin Group and powered by Hungama Play was inaugurated by Sri. S. Ganesh (President, SIES) and Sri. S V Viswanathan (Member, Management Council & Mentor, SIES), Ms. Preeti Shah (HR Director, SIES), Dr. Seema Mishra (IIEM Director) along with the crew of the movie 'Ribbon'-Ms. Rakhee Sandilya (Director), Mr. Rajeev Upadhyay (Writer) and Ms. Swati Mandal (Producer), on the 9th of January 2018 with the traditional lamp lighting ceremony. This was followed by a presentation depicting the various themes that Frames has embodied over the years and how it adopted Katha-rsis in its 15th edition.

Thereafter, the trailer of the movie 'Ribbon' was screened marking the end of the inaugural event. The first day witnessed the screening of Short Films. The national short films were judged by celluloid geniuses such as Mr. Bikramjeet Kanwarpal, Mr. Rajit Kapur and Ms. Anant Jog. The international short films were judged by renowned judges - Mr. Uday Shankar Pani, Mr. Karthik Krishnan, and Mr. Rishi Deshpande.

The second day included the screening of Documentary Films, Ad Films and Contingent Films. The panel of judges for Documentary Films had Mr. Jayant Gilatar and Mr. Champak Banerjee. Ad Films were judged by Ms. Parvinder Kaur and Mr. Kailash Surendranath and Contingent films by Mr. Rakesh Sharma, Mr. Deepak Kadam and Mr. Prafulla Omkar.

The third and closing day of the huge film fiesta, had screening of Animation Films, Music Videos. The animation films were judged by Mr. Dhimant Vyas and Mr. AK Madhavan. Music Videos got its dose of glamour with celebrities like Mr. Sanjay F Gupta, Ms. Anwesha and Mr. Aaman Trikha who mesmerized the audience with their soulful voices.

Conclusively, the winners were announced and Dr. Aditi Govitrikar, a renowned actor and model, presented the awards to the best talents from individual categories of films in the award ceremony. Thus, the three day festival dropped curtains for the year 2018 celebrating the joy of achievement and the passion for the art and science of filmmaking as always.

Organized on 29th July 2017, the session was a need-based programme for the students of Commerce (FY/SY/TY), as it informed them about a transformed business sector which operates through computerized methods of process planning and management. It allowed the students – the future members of the commercial community – to learn the fact that advanced and updated computer knowledge is essential and a pre-requisite in most business organizations in the present times. The programme was a brief interactive session between the students and personnel from Technoria eTechnologies regarding various courses and career prospects pertaining to SAP-ERP. It encouraged the students to equip themselves with computer knowledge and certifications along with their academic ones to improve their understanding of the new work culture in business and adapting to it.

The Extra curricular Activities are the events arranged by the Department for the students to develop their skills: leadership, decision making, operational management, and such. In this academic year, this area included activities like:

Let the hatred inside you, sink into the deepest of oceans and die of loneliness.

Let your focus rise above your unfathomable ego, and let it perform the best of actions.

Bring back your claps and greetings and replace them with these materialistic likes and comments.

Close those eyes and let your vision travel deeper and farther, until you see the brilliant, invincible and the forgotten 'you'.

Bring back the die hard, childish and selfless love, into this world and experience the death of fakeness in your thoughts and smiles.

End all comparisons and stimulate the development of compliments. Believe and bleed for all the principles that erases every mark of negativity in you. Live practical, yet creative.

"This Very Old Woman"

Her eyes were full in glory Most of her nights were spent in lonely Her house is away from others That doesn't have any door, And had muddy floors Always looking up at the ceilings with her beautiful eyes Wrinkled face, Prettier than what she looked, Her spine was bend needed a stick to walk This very old woman had nobody's house to knock She was mentally ill Still understood the bad treating of her sons, They didn't want her to come in their lives And never showed respect, They all had the common aspect, They were very good to others And when the day came When angels came to take her soul This time her face was lit up like a candle, But this time she is free of melted wax That looks ugly, The peace she got was outshine from her face She is happy in her beautiful place.

He cried...

He:

I shouldn't have left you alone.

I regret for that filthy decision of mine,
please forgive me.

Those pictures remind me of the good old days.

Those memories brought back tears each weighing love and joy.

The glimpses flashing before my eyes gets me moved always when you played with my hairs and kissed me on my cheeks.

Yes you were overwhelmed when I kissed you back and said those three magical words in your ears.

When I was lost you never let me down, when I gave up my hopes you supported me, when I had none you stood by my side.

And now that I have realized my mistake,

I want you to come back please.

I promise to fulfill the vows I made before, to live together with you forever and keep you happy always.

You were my priority and you will always be.

I Love You

tears rolling down her eyes she replied

She:

Son, I am happy here.

I've made new friends all of my age.

I just pray you be happy all the days.

I Love You too.

Indian Parliament: A War ground

A few years back a video from The Hindu was circulated on social media in which a classroom full of students were instructed by their professor to conduct a debate in proper parliamentary behavior. One student stands and starts to speak when suddenly the other team's students get up and try to push him away. In a second the whole classroom becomes a battleground wherein all of the students are fighting and are throwing things at each other while that one student still speaks loudly in the hope of getting heard.

This is what the Indian parliament has come to. This shows how much of an influence political leaders have on the youth as well as on the people of the nation. When one party's member tries to voice his/her opinion, all that person gets in return is loud wails from the opposition. They don't even give that person an opportunity to speak. Don't they realize that maybe that person has a revolutionary idea or a concern that needs to be addressed? The Honorable Speaker practically becomes useless at this point because the whole house comes to an uncontrollable state wherein all of the members start howling at the top of their voices and in extreme cases become violent.

Is this why we elected them - to learn useless slogans, to destroy property and to hurl their fists at people? Obviously, not! We elected them so that they can do something for the welfare of the people and the country. The Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha were established in order for elected leaders to discuss problems and their solutions and not to protest in front of the Speaker as if it's the Speaker's fault that the oppositions don't agree with their views. The debates of our country have become personal matters of the party members as each member keeps picking out flaws of the other. Almost every day the meeting is adjourned because almost none of the members get to speak and almost all members create a ruckus. One cannot imagine the amount of taxpayers' money spent on the transport and luxuries of an MP.

The most simple and straightforward solution to this problem is to let both the Ruling and the Opposition speak! If you disagree then you can share your thoughts when your turn comes! If people wanted to watch cat fights they'd watch reality shows on T.V. It's high time that the Speaker announces before each session, "Please have a school level debate".

The Parliament in our system has immense powers as it is the representative of the people. The members of the parliament make important decisions on behalf of the people so as to make our country a better place to live in. But in the present condition of the house they are unable to do so. This is a major problem which can have devastating consequences. India is still a developing country and has a long, long way to go to become developed if this is what our leaders are doing. The discussions should solely be for our country and not for making the house a war ground.

You live a dream! Orean of a happy tonorrow, With no warries and anxieties, Just calming joy over sorrow. But you never know. There maybe fault in your stars, Cursed might be your life's pages, and bad luck nurtured on your path. What you sow, you reap! "I sowed positivity for my enemy, Contempt for my haters." But, did you really mean them? Life is an amazing journey. Where an insect kisses the flower, and where angels embrace the devil. as two negatives make one positive. Seems uncommon and absurd? Well, truth tastes bitter! Short life and big expectations! and you dream of a happy tomorrow.

Principal's Note

Greetings to all readers!

SIESASCN focuses on the holistic development of students. The College continuously strives to identify opportunities which will foster the same.

High priority is given to academics in the College. This is reflected in the consistent good results across all courses. In addition to this, a number of other statutory and non-statutory committees function in the College which serve the dual purposes of bridging the gap between theory and practice; and acting as a platform for students to showcase their versatile talents.

My message to all the staff and students is to trust the immense potential each one of us has and motivate oneself to reach higher goals. My best wishes and support are with every activity that the College desires to take up.

The ultimate aim of any educational institution is to develop responsible citizens. The collective positive attitude of such individuals will lead to the progress of the nation. I take this opportunity to communicate to all readers to consciously develop the attitude of social responsibility, because ultimately, it is only the little drops of water that make the mighty ocean!

Jai Hind!

Warm Regards,

Dr. Milind Vaidya

Convenor's Note

Dear Readers, Greetings from SIESASCN!

I am back with the College magazine, once again.

The magazine is presented in a manner which will engage, inform and entertain a diverse readership.

The College magazine 'CACHE', which means 'treasure', is indeed a repository of various information regarding the College. As the pages unfold, the reader gets to know mission, faculty, students, resources, achievements and challenges of the College.

With the exception of creative writing, the contents of this book are purely 'past tense'. Well, a magazine is intended to be so. But using this personal space of mine, I would like address the students to look into the 'future'. And, in doing so, I take the guidance offered by the Mother.

She says, "Progress is the reason why we are on this earth". Hence, dear students, every one of you should strive to achieve something in your lifetime. You should set a goal for yourselves and work single minded towards achieving that goal. "The flame of the aspiration must be so straight and so ardent that no obstacle can dissolve it". This will give you a sense of commitment which will make you enjoy whatever you are pursuing.

If the student community can commit itself to constructive goals, the nation is sure to move "Forward, always forward, in love, joy and a peace rising ever higher". After all, that is the ultimate objective of an educational institution — to channelize young minds into positive thinking, which will in turn reflect in the well-being of the nation.

I now invite you to travel with me through the various events of 2017-18 of SIESASCN.

I thank our Principal, Dr. Milind Vaidya and Vice-Principal Dr. Koel Roy Choudhury for their guidance in compiling this magazine. My thanks are also due to the Magazine Committee members, Ms. Ashwathy Ravindran (Faculty, BCom), Mr. Mithun Pillai (Faculty, BMM) and Ms. Sunita Ambhore (Faculty, JC) for their support.

Warm Regards,
B. Indumathi
(Convenor, Magazine Committee 2018-19)

"MATCH IT UP" - A CLASSROOM ACTIVITY

Considering the need for encouraging student-centered methods of teaching learning today, a classroom activity "Match It Up" was organized for the FYBCom classes (A& B divisions) on 15th of March 2019. The objective of the activity was to check the comprehension skills of the students especially the weaker ones in a practical manner.

Accordingly, the students were given a jumble of words from the subject curriculum of Business Communication subject on the black board and they were required to rewrite the all the correct pairs within a time limit of 3mins. To make it a collaborative effort, the students were divided into groups and the activity was conducted in the form of a relay, whereby one participant at a time was called upon to solve the jumble first, within a few seconds the next participant was randomly picked, and so on until four students participated from each group. At the end, the team with maximum correct answers was declared the winner.

This activity proved to be an innovative method of learning as the students had to use body as well as mind to solve the puzzle and to keep up the relay. NIVDAK PU. LA.

On Monday, 28 January 2019, Marathi Vangmay Mandal organised an event named 'Nivdak Pu. La.' as a tribute to the versatile personality 'P. L. Deshpande a.k.a Purushottam Laxman Deshpande'. Highlights of the event were few video clips of P. L. Deshpande reading out some humorous excerpts from his own books.

P. L. Deshpande was born on 8 November 1919. For celebrating his birth anniversary, the committee organised this event. As for the start of the event, one of the volunteers gave a briefing about P. L. Deshpande and his life introducing him to non-marathi public as well. He was one of the most accomplished film and stage actors, scriptwriters, authors, composers, musicians (played harmonium), singers and orators. He was often referred to as 'Maharashtra's beloved personality'.

Video clips were played from 'Chitale Master', 'Mumbaikar, Punekar ki Nagpurkar?' and 'Me ani Majha Shatrupaksha'.

In the video 'Chitale Master', P. L. Deshpande has described a character called Chitale Master as a representation of old times school teachers. Deep study in their field, their devotion to their profession, and their love and attention towards their students were a few things that were put in words by P. L. Deshpande in this video. The current changing education system, change in students' interests as well as their behaviour towards their teachers and parents' attention towards their children and their education were some topics that he mentioned in a hilarious manner.

'Mumbaikar, Punekar ki Nagpurkar?' were the three options given by P. L. Deshpande to the readers and they were asked to choose one of these. He has debated among the three states, Mumbai, Pune and Nagpur, the lifestyle of the people living there, their general behaviour and body language, their ways of talking and assuming certain things, etc. He has arranged the words in a way that will not hurt the readers' feelings. This one of many qualities possessed by P. L. Deshpande and loved by every reader.

In the video 'Me ani Majhe Shatrupaksha' P. L. Deshpande has described his annoyance towards the newly constructed houses and their photos, hunters and their killed targets' photos, people showing photos of their trip to foreign lands. P. L. Deshpande has taught the art of cleverly dodging people's sketchy and boastful behaviour without them noticing it and instead making them laugh. His writings quote that 'one's difficulties are to be faced by oneself; only then those will become easy'.

Watching these video clips sent waves of laughter among the staff and students present. It was clear that even if the references in P. L. Deshpande's videos are old, they are still applicable to the current world. The humour is still alive. P. L. Deshpande died at the age of 80 on 12 July 2000 but his works will always stay in the heart of the readers.

Kindness-The second name of humanity

Oh! ye mighty lord, in this sinner world, lend me your sword, to make a bit heaven in this world.

I want to help the poor, the trodens,the needy, i want to serve them throughout my life, just need yours mighty sword.

But oh! dear angel i appreciate your kind effort-replied all mighty, but u can do this with your own magical hands instead of having the sword.

There is o need of godly men or powers to do it, but your efforts will do the job,

Always help each other in whatever way you can, "kindness is a language which a deaf can hear, and a blind can see" help them to your fullest; they will only give you the mighty sword Nikita Jamwal (FYBsc. IT)

I cry, I cry,
After my failures of try,
I wanted u to be mine,
U were my lil sunshine,
I smiled and held my tears back from u,
What else could I do , I fell in love with u,
I never knew an exchange of thoughts,
Would make my life fall apart,
U always meant the world to me, and then I thought was it even meant to be?
I cry, I cry,
After my failures of try....

RED

I want a red dress, Despite my curved body, I want it tight and above my knees Until someone tears it off me. I want it all backless and sleeveless,

A dress that no one has to guess what's underneath.

I would walk down the street,

The street full of nasty people,

Judging and slut-shaming me.

But I'll still walk like I am the only woman on the Earth, who can have her pick.

I want the red dress so badly,

I'll wear it with my smiling red lipstick coated lips

I want them to confirm the worst fears about me,

To show how little I care about the society,

Or anything else except what I want.

I want it. I'll find it.

I'll put that dress from that hanger,

My body will carry it with immense elegance,

And here I'll get cornered by a group of men,

They'll rip my dress, they'll bruise me,

Punished for being one of 'those' woman,

And I'll be left on the road dying and pleading for life,

And my blood forming streamlets down the road,

Yet, I'll wear it like bones and like skin,

It will be the goddamned dress,

That I'll be buried in.

MY PRAYER.....

Where children do not wake up to the sounds of gunshots,

Where childhood of the soul is not lost because of physical or mental abuse,

Where the human heart can become a shelter for every soul, when needed,

Where people are not uncertain about their food the next time,

Where every individual is respected for the person that she/he is,

Where relationships between the same sex do not appear as media highlights,

Where the human values are not consumed by the greed for money,

Where every person does her/his job conscientiously,

Where human mind has not shrunk into blind following,

Where competitors turn into partners,

Where every human endeavour is genuine,

Where news reports are true portraits,

Where technology has not crossed its limits into the human life,

Where nature is worshipped with highest reverence,

Into that heaven of humanity, Father, let the world awake!

A Eulogy for Dr. Rita Basu

"We all die. The goal isn't to live forever; the goal is to create something that will." - Chuck Palahniuk

Dr. Rita Basu, M.A. (English), M.A. (Geography), Ph.D., SET qualified, was the Principal of SIESASCN from 2012 to 2016.

Prior to becoming the Head of the Institution, Dr. Basu was a faculty with BCom.

She strived continuously to take the College to greater heights. Under her leadership, the College witnessed all round progress.

Basu Mam was also conscious about the environment and started the Conservation Club of the College.

The College saw many 'firsts' under her leadership - International conference, affiliation with DLLE, Mumbai University, Syllabus revision seminar and NAAC Re-accreditation with A grade were a few among them. On the infrastructure side, the Audio-visual room, Gymkhana, Girls' common room and the bleachers in the quadrangle will bear silent testimony to her vision and dedication.

Basu Mam left for the heavenly abode on 30.4.2019. May her soul rest in peace!
